FIAS President says IOC recognition is "crucial" for countries seeking funding

By Daniel Etchells at the Minsk Sports Palace  Saturday, 20 May 2017

International Sambo Federation (FIAS) President Vasily Shestakov has claimed that recognition of the sport from the International Olympic Committee (IOC) is "crucial" for countries seeking Governmental support and funding, adding that it is less important for powerhouses Russia.

Earlier this year, Russian Olympic Committee (ROC) President Alexander Zhukov said sambo is on the right track for one day featuring on the programme of the Olympic Games, but admitted the process will not be a quick one.

Sambo was one of 14 sports to miss out on provisional recognition from the IOC in December as the International Cheer Union and International Federation of Muaythai Amateur were both accepted.

It marked the latest snub for the FIAS which had been hopeful of being put forward for full recognition at the IOC Session in Rio de Janeiro in August, only to be overlooked along with several other Federations.

Speaking to insidethesgames here at the European Sambo Championships in Belarus’ capital, Shestakov implied it is a question of when not if the FIAS will get over the line.
