Introduction

A Word from the President

It gives me great honour to be part of the world SAMBO family. The foundation of SAMBO rests on the pillars of friendship, fair play, and respect, which are also the foundation for a healthy and happy everyday life.

SAMBO truly has become a world recognised sport, with one hundred and twenty National Federations gathered from all five continents, united by the Continental Federations, all working together under the same rules and regulations and with the same goals.

It is real pleasure to know that SAMBO has become a household name. With the increased popularity build throughout the digital platforms and social media and increased linear television distribution, the sport has gained great media attention, by showing that it can bring together athletes from across the world compete with honour and the spirit of cultural exchange and understanding.

FIAS can be proud of its youth and female development and in striving to uphold the spirit of fair play, both in and out of competition.

I cannot help but also feel a sense of pride in our achievements. Pride for the values and heritage we share together and pride in all of those who practice SAMBO, from young to old, whether for fitness and health, for competition, or as a cultural art form.

It is a wonderful feeling to know that our social projects over the last decade are showing fruits and have been implemented in so many countries. Our close links with GAISF, Peace and Sport, and TAFISA enable us to better play our role in working together to make this world a better place.

FIAS and SAMBO will continue to be part of the world sport and Olympic family and will continue to work closely with world recognised sporting federations, always seeking excellence to bring our sport to an even higher level.

Vasily SHESTAKOV

FIAS President

Introduction to FIAS

SAMBO is considered as the national heritage developed in Russia, between two world wars as the best possible form and techniques of self-defence and hand to hand combat. Notably, SAMBO was the martial art of the battlefield, used as a method of self-defence. Soldiers from those times practiced a variant of the martial art that involved weapons, as well as the unarmed close combat style which forms the basis of modern SAMBO.

The art of SAMBO developed into a modern competitive sport in the 20th century, as competitions in were introduced, and rules and regulations began to govern the sport.

The International SAMBO Federation (hereafter referred to as “FIAS”) is the world governing body. It is based in Lausanne, Switzerland, and was established in 1984 with fifty-six-member countries following the same rules and regulations. While SAMBO was already practised globally under the commission of the International Amateur Wrestling Federation (FIWA) nowadays known as United World Wrestling (UWW), it was neither unified nor regulated, which FIAS sought to change. In recent years, SAMBO has undergone a huge surge of interest: as other forms of martial arts have become more and more popular, SAMBO has grown exponentially.

Nowadays FIAS counts one-hundred twenty (120) member National Federations (NFs) worldwide and four Continental Federations (CFs), all existing under a single, unified regulatory body.

SAMBO is not only practiced by all its member NFs, it has also grown into a popular fitness activity. Its diversity is evident, as it practised as a traditional form of combat, a form of self-defence, and a means to achieve personal fitness with its durable cultural characteristics. SAMBO can now be found practiced by all ages and fitness levels throughout gyms around the world. This base level of participation provides a growing passion for the competitive sport.

The following key facts summarize the structure of the International Federation (IF):

- FIAS is a non-profit organisation
- It has a membership of 120 NFs, 89 of which are full members and 30 of which are candidates
- It is governed by a statutes and bylaws, with robust code of ethics and disciplinary measures based on principles of Olympic Charter
- It is compliant with the World Anti-Doping Agency (WADA)
- It recognises the jurisdiction of the Court of Arbitration for Sport (CAS)

Vision and Mission Statement

FIAS's vision is to continue to be the world leader in SAMBO, having already achieved an important milestone: the IOC provisional recognition. Moreover, is fully recognised by the world leading sport organisations such as GAISF, ARISF, the Olympic Council of Asia (OCA), FISU, TAFISA, and is fully compliant with the World Anti-Doping Code. FIAS aims to spread the sport of SAMBO throughout the world, maintaining its traditional integrity and ensuring a uniform set of rules, working mutually for the sport and the athletes.

The history of SAMBO, which is the backbone of the sport, has provided FIAS with an important heritage, which has become inseparable from the practice of the sport itself. Growing from a base of military self-defence techniques, the practice of SAMBO promotes social and educational exchange at an international level. The values inherent to the practise of the sport are also universal values, which make it an easy sport to adopt and identify with.

Broadening the reach and appeal of SAMBO is one of the keystones of the IF's development plan, as the potential of grassroots engaged in SAMBO is a rich resource which will ensure the continued future success and growth of the sport. FIAS seeks to encourage and develop the practice of SAMBO in the following aspects:

- as an educational, social and cultural form
- as a competition sport
- as a fitness, safety and health programme
- as a self-defence tool

These different aspects of SAMBO make the sport accessible to all ages and genders, further considering mobility limitations and impairments, which some practitioners may have. FIAS's motto and mission statement can be summarized as: "SAMBO - the modern sport with traditional principles for everyone."

The IF strives to deliver high level competitive and promotional opportunities to the widest range of stakeholders possible. It is committed to transparency and integrity, providing a strong and supportive administrative service and maintaining financial stability.

In fulfilling such vision and living up to its mission statement, FIAS will adhere to its core values. These are of importance above all else, as they are the heart of such sport and art. FIAS urges all of its members to maintain these key elements as a focal priority in their SAMBO pursuits.

SAMBO Values

Transparency and Accountability - providing a level playing field for competition, encouraging sportsmanship, efficiency, and transparency in all FIAS operations, as well as strict adherence to the World Anti-Doping Code.

Honesty and Integrity - This requires the involvement of all SAMBO stakeholders: showing respect for one another, towards the FIAS rules and regulations, and upholding a spirit of solidarity and preserving the integrity of sport.

Tradition and Excellence - by promoting the social, educational and cultural aspects and customs characteristic into the sport. Endorsing the highest levels of achievement in competition, coaching, and officiating.

Respect and Loyalty - The practice by all FIAS stakeholders of a respectful involvement regardless of race, age, gender, sexual orientation, disability or nationality.

FIAS's Stakeholders

FIAS operates in a variety of different contextual levels, with a myriad of different regulatory bodies and institutions. The different political and administrative contexts which FIAS must navigate through, require flexibility and adaptability from the organisation, without a loss of its core values. FIAS tries to maintain a healthy balance between the needs and interests of the entities with which it interacts.

Internal Stakeholders

- Athletes - elite athletes, national team level, local and grassroots practitioners
- Coaches - national, local and grassroots coaches
- Officials - FIAS's Technical Commission, and world, continental, national, state, and club level referees, judges, and technical officials
- Administrators - FIAS's Administration, FIAS Executive Committee members, FIAS Commission Members, and national representatives
- National Federations - One hundred twenty (120) NFs
- Continental Federations - four continental bodies: SAMBO Union of Asia, African SAMBO Confederation, Pan-American SAMBO Confederation, European SAMBO Federation

External Stakeholders

- Athlete supporters - family members, personal fan base, and gyms
- Spectators - live audiences at events, via television, and online
- Media - in print, electronic, and internet forms
- Commercial partners - sponsors and approved equipment suppliers and manufacturers
- Sport Organisations - GAISF, OCA, TAFISA, and National Olympic Committees
- Games Bodies - SportAccord World Combat Games, TAFISA Sport for All Games, Asian Indoor & Martial Art Games, South-East Asian Games, Asian Games, European Games and Central American Games
- Sport Regulatory Bodies - WADA and CAS

- Governmental Institutions - National Sports Ministries, National Tourism Ministries, and Foreign Ministries

Strategic Goals

FIAS practices a strategic position, with the main objective of promoting SAMBO as a social, educational and cultural form and sport. It is important to the IF that its athletes are shown a portrait for what they can achieve: from how to balance detriments and maintain a healthy lifestyle, to properly dealing with defeat and victory. FIAS's strategic goals focus on:

1. youth and grassroots development - It is believed that the sport can only be safe if the next generation outshines the current.
2. Engage the women in sports development - FIAS thinks globally, especially when the development of women sport is at the stake and concentrate on countries, where women traditionally are not as involved in sports as their male counterparts. Major success can already be seen in countries some countries thanks to the introduction of special equipment for the female athletes
3. Maintaining the standards of fair-play both in and out of competition. This concerns drug prevention and testing, ensuring the standard of referees and officials, and working against match-fixing particularly for betting purposes.
4. Social and community development: "giving back" as a strategy taught from the very early stages. This encompasses initiatives such as "SAMBO for Peace" and SAMBO for kids" and "How to fall right" initiative. These strategic goals give meaning and purpose to the IF's pursuits.

Planning for the Future

Implementation

FIAS's strategic plan for 2014-2017 is positioned to support the uninterrupted transition of terms of office of FIAS's President, General Secretary, and Executive Committee Members.

According to the FIAS Statutes, the term of office is of 4 years mandates. FIAS's latest elections took place in 2017, remaining in effect until 2021. After every subsequent election, the President, General Secretary and Executive Committee are given one year to draft a strategic plan for the following four years.

Executive review of the strategic plan will continue to take place annually to allow for corrections and adjustments, if necessary. NFs, Commission members, and all related parties will continue to be kept informed and up to date.

FIAS ensures that there is a strict cooperation between the FIAS Administration, FIAS President, the FIAS Executive Committee and all FIAS Commissions for the common goal of the continued development of SAMBO. FIAS seeks to ensure that it maintains a multi-cultural staff, bringing different expertise and unique cultural understanding of the various member regions.

FIAS is continuing its youth development, education programmes and implementing social projects and cultural understanding between world youth. Having fun and making friends by doing sport is the key to youth development.

FIAS also keeps up to date, using social media networks as a tool for communication, especially with the youth.

FIAS gives equal importance to its fair play programme, as it is foundational to the organization that it is better to fail with honour than succeed with dishonesty. We are continuing our prevention programme to ensure that the athletes are well informed. Additionally, fair decision making in competition must be ensured.

FIAS will continue to develop female participation in the sport. On the fitness side, the numbers of women participants already clearly outnumber males.

Maintaining a strong presence on television sport and entertainment programmes is a continuing goal, to reach and educate people who do not yet have a clear understanding of the sport and to simultaneously educate them about SAMBO's rules, regulations and values.

Implementation of the strategic plan is to take place during the term of office of all elected officials. It represents the credo of the current Executive Committee.

The Next Phase

FIAS's next strategic plan will cover 2022-2026.
