

FIAS ETHIC CODE

For Approval by the FIAS Executive Committee on October 7th, 2016.

I. PREAMBLE

FIAS bears a special responsibility to safeguard the integrity and reputation of SAMBO worldwide. FIAS is constantly striving to protect the image of SAMBO, and especially that of FIAS, from jeopardy or harm as a result of illegal, immoral or unethical methods and practices. In this connection, the following Code reflects the principles of the FIAS Code of Conduct, which defines the most important core values for behaviour and conduct within FIAS as well as with external parties.

Traditional martial arts usually have a single historical founder; SAMBO, as a sports synthesis, claims at least three founders and Russian experts.

Spirodonov is the first of these "experts" to be recognized historically. He is considered to be the oldest Soviet promoter of SAMBO.

Oschepkov resumes work of Spirodonov in a sports version. With a group of specialists from the USSR wrestling, he completed the "Freestyle", which prefigures the current sport SAMBO.

Kharlampiev is the third founder, with a group of specialists from the USSR wrestling, he completed the "Freestyle", which prefigures the current sport SAMBO. Kharlampiev is an important promoter of SAMBO. He enriches the research of SPIRIDONOV and Oschepkov, and performs the summary of their work. The first meeting of professors and teachers of SAMBO was held in 1938.

Shortly after the 50's a period of SAMBO influence began. IN early '60s, several countries have created a Federation of SAMBO in their homelands, and began organizing national championships and participating in international meetings. SAMBO is then placed as a style under the aegis of the F.I.L.A., who recognized it officially as the third international style during its regular meeting in June 1966 in Toledo (USA).

Given the number of increasing important national federations, the creation of an independent institution was proved to be imperative. Thus FIAS was established.

Previously the federation was named "International Amateur SAMBO Federation" and had been established in Madrid (Spain) on 13 June 1984.

The International SAMBO Federation (FIAS) is a non-governmental and non-profitable organization, neutral regarding politics and embracing the principles of non-discrimination of beliefs, religions, races and sexes. FIAS is the only organization that carries instruction in the development of SAMBO around the world, rules and procedures governing the organization of SAMBO competitions.

A special responsibility is also imparted in the philosophy of FIAS ensuring the integrity of the SAMBO image in the world. FIAS constantly seeks to protect the image of SAMBO from danger or damage arising from any conduct or practice contrary to law, morals or ethics.

This Code reflects the principles of good conduct of the FIAS Code, which defines the basic principles and important values of behaviour by FIAS as well as by the external parties.

II. CODE OF ETHICS
